Wild Variety Not Worth Mentioning, Says Department. In regard to a recently published article giving a glowing account of a new wheat, the Department of Agriculture yesterday issued the following statement:

"A variety of wheat under the name 'Alaska' is being widely advertised as capable of yielding at the rate of 200 bushels to the acre 'under ordinary soil conditions' and even better 'under extra conditions.' It is stated that his variety was found growing wild on the eastern coast of Alaska, and claims of the most extravagant nature are made for it. In consequence of this notoriety the De tests of a Lively Day at the An- partment of Agriculture is receiving many requests for seed." The department states that this type
